Parashat VAYAKHEL... The Torah returns to the construction of Israel's Tabernacle and first reviews the materials used in the building of the Tabernacle and its dimensions. The Rabbis found an important lesson in this repetition. They believed that it was necessary to repeat this information in order to show that Moses had not misappropriated any materials donated by his people. According to the Rabbis, people in charge of charitable funds must maintain the highest standards. Because they work for the community, they must be above all suspicion.
