Parashat VAYAKHEL... The Torah returns to the construction of Israel's Tabernacle and first reviews the materials used in the building of the Tabernacle and its dimensions. The Rabbis found an important lesson in this repetition. They believed that it was necessary to repeat this information in order to show that Moses had not misappropriated any materials donated by his people. The Rabbis taught people in charge of charitable funds must maintain the highest standards. Because they work for the community, they must be above all suspicion.

Reflections on Shabbat Across America

by

Shelley Goldman

On Friday evening, March 1, my family and I were happy to attend Shabbat Across America at the Sephardic Temple. This occasion has always been a special time for my siblings and extended family to come together at our beloved synagogue. We were greeted by the warmth of the congregation and meaningful prayers during Friday night services, followed by beautiful tablescapes and a welcoming atmosphere in the dining room. Genadeen Caterers prepared a delicious full-course meal and a feeling of community and friendship was felt in the room. It was great to see our Temple friends and lively conversations were had by all. Events like Shabbat Across America remind us of our connections to our Temple family and help connect us to Judaism and all those across the continent who were participating in Shabbat Across America as well. Thank you all for a memorable night!
